

Our Vision

To visitors and residents alike, it is evident that A1A's outstanding resources merit both recognition and protection. Our vision is to educate and promote public awareness; engage the public to take an active role in assisting with government and community involvement. The river to sea journey along the A1A corridor is intriguing and diverse. It is a journey that might include walking through historical districts, bike riding through a majestic oak-covered Hammock, climbing coquina rocks on the beach, or floating down the Matanzas River on an eco adventure.

Our vision includes staying involved in plans for new developments or improvements; and working with local government and communities to assist them in continuing to ensure and complement the natural surroundings that enhance the Old Florida atmosphere of A1A.

To fulfill Friends of A1A's Mission we work closely with community and civic organizations within our local counties and currently have six 2009 projects ongoing:

- 3 National Scenic Byway Projects
- 1 FI Coastal Management Project
- 2 VISIT FLORIDA Projects

Projects improve Byway parks, natural areas, and help local businesses.

As a Friend member you will be assisting us in our six current goals of:

- Resource Protection - Improving parks & roadway beautifications
- Transportation & Safety - Studying speeding and safety issues
- Community & Government Support - collaborating with many partners
- Education & Communication - informing all about natural resources
- Economic Development & Tourism - attracting greenway travelers
- Organizational Development - managing the corridor master plan

A1A Scenic & Historic Coastal Byway

From Jacksonville at the Duval County line, south through both St. Johns and Flagler counties lies a travelers' delight of sights, sounds, and smells; seemingly, far removed from the hassle and chaos of city life. It's 72 miles is spiced delightfully with beautiful parks, preserves, archaeological sites, historic monuments, pictorial waterways, ancient architecture, and miles of beautiful beaches.

Friends of A1A Scenic & Historic Coastal Byway, a non-profit organization, consists of three state-designated scenic highways: A1A Ocean Shore (Flagler-south), A1A River to Sea Trail (Flagler-north), and Scenic & Historic A1A (St. Johns). Each state scenic highway has its own Corridor Management Entity (CME), with an executive board, volunteers and subcommittees. Designated a National Scenic Byway in 2002, the A1A Scenic & Historic Coastal Byway is a marriage of these three groups. Its board reflects representation from all three CMEs. Our volunteer board members embrace the corridor-wide mission and strategic plan for the entire 72-mile corridor.
